

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Boy! It's as hot in Richmond as the rest of the country.

But there have been no collapses or deaths to mar the fair record of our city.

We may have cyclones (We heard there was one here anyway), or earthquakes (in a minute) or lightnings and thunder and rain, yes plenty of rain, but no major catastrophes.

But summer is here and a little bit early, we think.

Cotton print dresses and half socks are in view again.

The stockings fad may have come and gone, but the anklets never seem to quite lose their popularity with the economical comfort-lovers.

We are quite interested in seeing Lupe Vélez' latest "creation by Adrian."

It is said to be a feature of her newest picture.

As we recall, it was of black satin, a "hipless" model.

And it sounds as if Lupe had gone nudist without benefit of mountain retreat.

The description gives it as "more than backless with a strip of material holding it together behind and a panel in front."

Probably almost everyone has read "McKabe," short story in the Saturday Evening Post by now.

It might or might not appeal to those not engaged in the beetle newspaper existence.

But it's certainly good.

Every man or woman who has ever smelled printers' ink should sweat blood over McKabe's efforts to get out an extra edition without a staff.

The ending leaves the reader in doubt as to McKabe's condition.

He seems to have gone rather mad, but we presume he recovered.

Almost every dyed-in-the-wool newspaper man can relate a similar yarn.

And they always point out a white hair or so which they attribute to the strain.

RICHMOND COMMITTEE IS PLANNING NRA WORK

Just what is to be expected of the City of Richmond in working out the President's emergency re-employment plan will be gone into thoroughly this morning by the local campaign committee of which John A. Miller is chairman.

The committee, formed yesterday at a meeting held in Hotel Carquinez, will meet this morning at nine o'clock in the chamber of commerce offices on Tenth street.

Three chores

Three definite movements will be undertaken, according to Miller. They are:

1-Determine the extent of duty expected of the committee.

2-Select a full advisory group.

3-Select the majors of each district to work under the leadership of Clifford T. Douglas, colonel.

All labor, fraternal and civic groups in the city will be represented in the list of majors.

At yesterday's meeting a complete organization was effected, an organization that will establish the patriotic background against which the recovery program will be carried on.

Richmond Fights Scheme To Plan For New Parks

But for the alertness of one of Richmond's representatives at the meeting held in Oakland this week for the purpose of formulating plans for the purchase of lands of the Utility district for park purposes, a date for an election for formation of a park district and for voting of bonds by the east bay cities would have been set.

The East Bay Utility district, and its co-horts, wants to see a metropolitan park district formed. The district hopes by this method to liquidate its water bonds, by having the cities of the east bay area vote bonds, and turn them over in payment of land mostly mountain, which the district has no use for.

The two representatives from Richmond present at the meeting, E. B. Bull and J. A. Miller took an active part in the meeting.

Would Let Fast

The Oakland contingent wanted to have immediate action taken, and E. B. Bull attempted to have a date set for the election.

A bitter fight ensued, led by Miller and representatives from cities other than Oakland, with the result, the proposal was defeated by one vote.

It was held that the property already belonged to the people of the east bay cities, and while parks might be desirable, they were not in favor of spending the money of the people, especially in these times of depression.

Fight Over Committee

Then an attempt was made to have a hand picked committee appointed which left out the smaller cities, and this precipitated another battle.

Those who defeated the first proposal, finally mustered enough strength to adopt a motion to have a committee of twelve appointed, one from each city, and three at large to further investigate the proposal.

What is behind the general move is to include all of the cities of the east bay section in the proposed district, and even if any of the smaller district voted down the project, the vote of Oakland would be so large, that a city would be included against its will.

Richmond is now having $35 a day for the upkeep of its present parks, and the sentiment of the taxpayers of the city, from what can be learned is almost unanimous against being included in any metropolitan park district.

BABY KILLING STORY BLASTED

SURGEON IS SURE INFANT GIRL WASN'T DISFIGURED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—An autopsy surgeon here today blasted Frank W. Fabian Jr.'s story that the illegitimate daughter he killed with a carving fork was hopelessly disfigured.

Dr. Sherman Leland, who performed a post-mortem examination of the butchered infant, made his startling disclosure at the same time the district attorney's office was pondering over what action to take against Fabian.

Dr. Sherman declared the brutal killing was not a "mercy death."

He stated the child was not disfigured and was not a "monstrosity" which its admitted slayer asserted it to be.

No Birthmark

Doctor Leland declared that the infant was apparently normal. The huge birthmark which young Fabian asserted spread over his child's face, was not disclosed by the examination, he said.

And there was no evidence of the harp which Fabian declared contributed to the infant's death.

Whole Case Changed

Apprehended of these findings, Assistant District Attorney Peter Mullins, who will prosecute Fabian, announced:

"This alters the entire case. We had not determined how we would proceed, inasmuch as there seemed to be extenuating circumstances. But with those circumstances swept away, the case is purely one of murder. We shall demand the death penalty and we shall call the autopsy surgeon as a witness to blast Fabian's story."

Fabian, himself, told of the autopsy revelations, seemed stunned. Then he declared:

"When I placed the baby on the bed it suddenly seemed to me as a physical and mental demon. Its face was one big blotch. There was a protuberance on its lip. I went temporarily insane. I guess, grabbed a fork, and stabbed, repeatedly."

But Doctor Leland, queried on his report, said definitely: "You may be sure that there was never any birthmark on that child's face. And there was never any harp."

Mother Speaks

As this amazing development quelled the controversy over whether any person is justified in dealing out a "mercy death"—the mother of the dead child spoke for the first time.

In a telegram from her home in Belmont, she said:

"I am stricken with sorrow to learn that Frank Fabian did a thing like that. Only last week, I received a note from him, asking for my consent to take the baby from the hospital, to place it under his sister's care. I believed that was his sole intention. I have not spoken to him since the baby was born."

BRIDGE SPEAKER

SAN JOSE, Aug. 16.—H. J. Brunner, member of the Consulting Engineers' Board for the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge, addressed the San Jose Rotary club at its weekly meeting today.

James Bullitt was special chairman.

Isn't It Peculiar?

Legitimate enterprises always operate in the day time. Most illegal operations are done in the dark.

If you wanted to purchase some merchandise, you would visit the store in the day time.

You would not expect to visit it at night and receive service, for it would be closed.

Speakeasies, and gambling joints are notorious night operators.

Yet only this week, about noon time the deputies of Sheriff Veale made a round of the speakeasies in El Cerrito and "No-Man's Land," and later the information was given out that a small number of slot machines were confiscated, but at the notorious "90 Club," "Acme Club," "401 Club" and "Josh House," there was nothing doing, and not even a slot machine was in sight, although they click merrily every night.

Now, Sheriff Veale gives out the statement THAT HE WOULD BE VERY MUCH PLEASED to have people tell him about illegal places, notwithstanding he receives $6,000 per year for this work, has about 14 paid deputies, and also has his personal deputy force of over 800 in the county.

If Sheriff Veale is sincere in his statement that he wants to clean up the county, it might be suggested that he first turn his attention to his home town, where illegal games are notorious for their open operations, and similar places in the upper part of the county.

Again, if the Sheriff thinks raids are necessary, why make them in the day time.

They may be all right, but to RAID A NIGHT CLUB IN THE DAY TIME at the least appears a bit off color.

Reds Urging Workers To Get Higher Wages

FRESNO, Aug. 16.—UP—Thousands of dollars worth of fruit rotting in central and northern California orchards today as ranch and cannery owners sought a way to end widespread strikes that have threatened the peach, pear and lettuce industries.

The situation generally was reported improved, with new fruit pickers starting work on one of the largest peach ranches, and indications that the owners of two other immense orchards would raise wages and recall their workers before the end of the week.

A statement issued by the California Packing corporation, which controls the Atwater and Tule ranches, expressed approval of the administration's NRA program and pointed out that the President's agreement excluded agricultural labor "as it is obviously impractical to regulate the hours of labor in the harvesting and handling of perishable products."

Make Careful Study

"A careful study and analysis of the wage rate paid cannery workers and fruit pickers in past years clearly demonstrates that the relative rate of wage for fruit pickers, as compared with the wage rates embedded in the code for cannery workers, is 25 cents an hour," the statement said.

"Concomitant with our recent statement that we would increase our rate of wage to fruit pickers for the harvesting of peaches, the aforementioned rate of 25 cents per hour will be effective immediately."

Fishermen Crumbling

Serious fishermen were reported considering a walkout, demanding $8 instead of $6 a ton for their fish.

Some 3000 motion picture technicians were on strike in Hollywood, and agitators were trying to stir up trouble among 2500 employees at Boulder Dam, near Las Vegas, Nev.

S. P. Train Dodges Big Cloudburst

FLORISTON, Calif., Aug. 16.—UP—A cloudburst, followed by torrential floods and landslides, tonight covered this mountain industrial community in the narrow gorge of the Truckee river with four feet of mud, rock and logs.

Southern Pacific tracks over the Sierra were buried under debris for several hundred feet and all traffic was at a standstill.

Train Escapes

Train No. 24, east bound from Oakland, escaped damage. No motorists were missing, the California State highway patrol reported.

The highway, however, was washed out. It was believed that the train and many motorists had been trapped in the flood and landslide which followed.

A summer electrical storm sent a wall of water down Dry Canyon, one mile east of here after the cloudburst. Buildings of the Crown Wilmotte paper company's plant were flooded and filled with mud.

Southern Pacific wrecking crews were being rushed from Sacramento and Sparks, Nevada, to repair the damage.

Last Rites Set For Ed Hooper

Last rites for Edward Hooper, 15, will be held this afternoon at two o'clock from the chapel of the Richmond funeral parlors.

Elder Jefferson of Berkeley Seventh Day Adventist church will officiate and interment will follow.

Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Hooper of 238 Fifteenth street, passed away after a long illness. He was a pupil of Lincoln school.

Surviving relatives include his parents, two sisters, Anna and Evelyn, and two brothers, Albert and Richard, all of Richmond.

Peterson Rites This Afternoon

Funeral services for the late William Elmer Peterson will be held at 3:30 this afternoon from the Wilson and Kratzer chapel. Harbor lodge of Masons will officiate and cremation will be in Oakland.

Peterson was secretary of the Masonic lodge.

ITINERANT TALKED TO BURLINGAME SWITCHMAN

SAN JOSE, Aug. 16.—A startling new angle in the Lamson murder mystery came to light today with the story of an alleged confession told by a Southern Pacific flagman.

Joe Begley of 675 Roble avenue, Menlo Park, a Southern Pacific switchman on duty at Oak Grove avenue crossing in Burlingame told Santa Clara authorities of the confession which he said was made by a negro itinerant.

Begley first told his story to a newspaper reporter and later to San Jose officers. He said that the negro approached him on the Monday following the killing of Mrs. Allene Lamson on Memorial day.

SAN JOSE, Aug. 16.—UP—The prosecution today issued a subpoena for Deloris Roberts, maid in the Stanford campus home where Mrs. Allene Thorpe Lamson was murdered.

State attorneys refused to say why Miss Roberts was subpoenaed, but admitted they wanted to be sure she would be available during the trial of David A. Lamson, which begins next Monday.

Friendly Fellow

Begley was on duty at the Oak Grove crossing when the negro asked him for a cigarette. Begley said he had none.

The negro then asked if he had seen anything in the newspapers about a murder on the Stanford campus. Begley had no newspaper but sent the colored man to the depot with 3 cents to buy one.

Breaks Down

The negro returned crying and clutching the paper which he said he had a man read to him. He said he was unable to read himself.

"That man didn't kill her," the negro walked according to Begley. "I killed her. I hit her on the head."

He is then said to have given Begley the details of the killing of Mrs. Lamson.

"The negro said he had gone to the Lamson home to rob it during the morning of Decoration day. He said he figured it being a holiday people would be away from home."

Comes From Bath

"He found the door unlocked and while he was busy robbing the house, he said the bathroom door opened and Mrs. Lamson came out wearing only a bathrobe."

"He said he grabbed her and she started to scream so he struck her on the head with the

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Primo Carnera can't get the permission of Madison Square Garden to engage in a 15-round defense of his heavyweight title against Dan McCord, South African, in Rome on October 8, so he's going to go ahead and fight him anyway.

At least that's the declaration the huge Italian's managers left Madison Square Garden after a two-day attempt to get the corporation's sanction of the match.

Carnera has a written agreement with the Garden binding him to fight his next match here but he wants to battle before his native Romans.

"We'll sue," said a Garden official today and the Carnera folks, already immersed in bankruptcy proceedings, still fighting a breach of promise verdict against the warrior abroad, and dickered with lawyers over movie and exhibition contracts, laughed heartily.

Speaking Of Sports

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—UP—Putting the sports shot here and there:

Manager Bill Terry of the Giants admits making one big mistake this year... He paid Detroit $7,500 for pitcher George Uhle, who had a lame back. The price was more than he paid for Shortstop Blondy Ryan who has been the sparkplug of the New York team. Despite his some 20 years in the big leagues, Rabbit Maranville still gets far more space than any other Boston ball player in the Boston papers.

Frankie Parker, Milwaukee's sensational young tennis player, wears a gold religious medal around his neck at all times. It cost Bernson S. Prentice some $5000 out of his own pocket to captain the American Davis Cup squad this year. The U. S. L. T. A., you know, doesn't pay the non-playing captain's expenses. Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, says he will urge at the next winter meeting of the American League that all players who marry during the playing season be suspended for the balance of the year—mid-season bridegrooms invariably lose their value to the team, he says. It takes two years to teach a polo pony the tricks he must know to play in fast company.

Tommy Hitchcock, greatest of all poloists, believes ponies are 60 percent of the game. Sydney B. Wood and Clifford Sutter, racquetballers, give themselves pop talks during a hard match. Betty Nutball, British tennis star, often arises before dawn to buy vegetables for her mother's hotel, of which plumpish twentyish Betty is manager. GRAIN PRICE
DESCENDS ON
'CHI' BOARD

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—UP—Grain prices fell on the Chicago Board of Trade today to the lowest marks allowed under the daily limitations recently set by the board.

It was the first day of trading since removal of the minimum restrictions, which stipulated that prices could not drop below specified levels.

The remaining restriction provided that prices could not drop more than three to five cents a day. At the outset of the trading, prices dropped the specified amounts and remained there until the close.

Under the new regulations, the prices can rise tomorrow or they can drop the same amount again but they cannot drop more than from three to five cents any one day.

The three cent drop restriction applied to oats, the four cent restriction to corn and the five cent restriction to wheat.

Because the maximum drop permitted occurred within the first hour of trading, the board again was comparatively quiet today.

After the trading session ended, directors met and announced that the same restrictions would be enforced tomorrow.

WEATHER CUTS
PEAR TONNAGE

MARTINEZ, Aug. 16.—While an unprecedented long hot spell during July reduced the expected pear tonnage considerably, the scarcity of shipping fruit has strengthened prices on the eastern market and growers anticipate a profitable season.

Probably only two-thirds as many pears will be shipped as was forecast, according to John F. Swift, Alhambra Valley orchardist, but growers are netting about $25 a ton as against $10 last year.

To date 18 carloads have been shipped from this point, 12 being sent directly east and six going to San Francisco for shipment by refrigerator steamers, and the seasonal total is expected to amount to between 50 and 60 carloads. After touching six cents per pound the dried pear market is now at about 5 1/2 cents, which is said to be a profitable price for growers, and 40 or 50 carloads of the local fruit will go to drying yards.

DEEP WATER PORT WORK MEET CALLED

PITTSBURG, Aug. 16.—Traffic managers and principal shippers of Eastern Contra Costa county will be asked to cooperate in securing deep water harbor facilities for this section, Howard Lauritzen, chairman of the special chamber of commerce port committee, said today.

Officials of the various concerns will be invited to attend a committee meeting to be held during the coming week, according to Lauritzen, and at that time an effort will be made to determine the amount of tonnage which might be expected at the proposed terminal.

An application for Federal aid in financing the project has already been filed with the State Chamber of Commerce.

As outlined by proponents of the plan, the terminal would tend to develop the Pittsburg-Antioch industrial section by reducing transportation costs through elimination of the necessity of freight products to Oakland and San Francisco for shipment.

At present there is no wharf large enough to provide storage facilities and the channel from the bay to Stockton does not run along the small docks maintained by various plants.

Lauritzen, an official of a local shipyard, is being aided in the project by Mayor Hugh H. Donovan, City Attorney R. N. Wolfe, Harry A. Barnes, secretary-manager of the chamber.

Supervisor R. J. Trembath of Antioch; Kenneth B. Anderson, chamber president; W. M. Cassey, William Cohn, E. J. Dunlap, Cole Dean, Orls Lovelace, F. J. Walker and Fred Stamm of Antioch.

ROBBERS EAT GROCERY LOOT

OROVILLE, Aug. 16.—Hungry burglars broke into a grocery store here and escaped undetected with a quantity of foodstuffs, Charles E. Wansan, manager, reported to police yesterday.

Wansan said the thieves cut a small hole in the roof and one of the men wedged himself down through the hole and into the store where he opened a rear door.

Then the burglars gathered a quantity of groceries on a rear bench and then prepared for a feast of baloney sandwiches, cold milk and cookies.

Before leaving the men took $1 in small change from cash registers in the grocery and meat departments of the store.

The store is across the street from the county sheriff's office.

Know Your Firms

Efficiency, Tect At Local Chapel

In making this review of "Know Your Firms," the prominent part played by individual professional firms, and what their services mean to our city and county, here in Richmond and adjacent area of the East Bay Cities we have many firms representing the modern mortuary but right here in Richmond we are afforded the services of a local institution that we know is built upon service, efficiency and courtesy combined with meeting the needs of the city and county.

The Richmond Funeral Parlor, which are conveniently located at 332-336 Eleventh street, Richmond are Richmond's own undertakers and morticians. This firm is owned and managed by Henry C. Goodman and Charles Curry Schmidt. Mrs. Schmidt is a niece of the late Bert Curry, who conducted the parlors for many years in the past.

There are few people in the world who take pleasure in having to make funeral arrangements. It is usually a sad affair, and the person or persons attending to such matters is so grief stricken that they indeed need the help of those in this business who understand the many little helpful needs and sympathies towards their client. We believe that the services of a funeral director is oftentimes mis-represented in the public mind. Many people have an awe or horror at the sight of such firms, feeling that they are dull and cold in their methods. This is indeed the wrong impression. The modern funeral director is a city's most valued helpful professional man, his methods are to help you to give you friendly advice and console you in your hour of sorrow. The Richmond Funeral Parlor is always glad to give you information at any time you desire to drop in and inspect their modern establishment, and we believe that the public's sentiments toward that dread feeling will disappear at the warmth of courtesy and friendship as given forth at this concern.

In the way of modern equipment the Richmond Funeral Parlor is complete in every detail. Modern funeral coaches and hearse, enable them to give a complete service. In other words they have the facilities of everything that a modern funeral director does.

The personnel of the firm also includes Mr. Tony Silva who was associated with the late Bert Curry for over 29 years in Richmond.

In making this review of our professional services as they pertain to our city and county we can unreservedly commend the Richmond Funeral Parlor to our reading public.

WIFE PREVENTS MAN'S SUICIDE

DAVIS, Aug. 16.—Dick Hauschild, 35, for many years a resident of Davis, yesterday attempted to commit suicide by hanging, but was rescued by his wife who came upon his body a few moments after he had plunged to what he believed would be his death.

Mrs. Hauschild missed her husband from the house and went to the garage of her home.

She found his body dangling from the end of a rope that had been fastened to a rafter. Her screams attracted Mrs. W. H. White, a neighbor, and together they cut down his body.

Dr. D. H. Beckman was summoned, and it was more than an hour before Mrs. Hauschild was revived.

It had been despondent because of his failure to secure employment during the past few weeks.

The Boy Scout Band met last evening for practice at the home of Willard McNeill.

This was the first meeting after

Gang Hopes To Release Its Leader

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 16. (U.P.)—Federal and local officers tonight watched highways leading to Dallas after getting a tip that armed carloads were heading in this direction, determined to attempt delivery of Harvey Bailey from the Dallas county jail.

Late today several carloads of officers, armed with machine guns, tear gas bombs and rifles, left the federal building for a destination they refused to divulge.

"We're on something hot," was all they would say in reply to questions.

Machine Gunner From Fort Worth and Houston came reports, believed to be from undercover men of the Department of Justice, that George Kelly, notorious machine gunner, was headed toward Dallas with a formidable company of gangland aides.

It was presumed, if the reports had foundation, that Kelly, for whom an extensive search has been made since the Charles E. Urschel kidnaping, planned to attempt to free Bailey, his companion in crime.

Children's Convulsions, Explaining the Cause And Treatment

IT WAS two o'clock in the morning. A terrific hammering at the front door aroused the entire household. A man's terrified voice called, "Come, doctor, quick! My baby! Something awful's happened with him!" It took some time to get him quieted down. He told me who he was and where he lived. This experience comes to every doctor.

Y E A R S ago, a midnight caller at my door was a very young father who kept shouting, "Leonora has spasms," until the phrase later became a household word for anything startling or alarming. Sometimes the excited call comes over the telephone. "Come, our baby is dying!" It takes a good deal of effort and sometimes some strong language to convince the excited caller that the doctor cannot recognize faces nor residence numbers over the telephone. Occasionally the receiver will be hung up before the address is given and the doctor probably gets considerable abuse for not coming at once.

A S A rule we are told that the little one "looks awful," which is quite the truth. And the onset of convulsions is always distracting in every detail. Perhaps the baby has been fretful and feverish or he may have been playing quietly or has just wakened from sleep. Suddenly his arms and legs commence to jerk, his face twitches, his eyes roll in their sockets, and become blood-shot. His head twists and jerks, his whole body becomes stiff. His lips and face are livid and he may even froth at the mouth. As the jerking subsides slowly the child passes into a coma in which it seems that death is really approaching. He does look awfully.

I N THE case I have in mind, I hurried, because I knew the distress of the family, and that the convulsion would all be over when I got there if I didn't hurry. As I entered the room, where the baby was, some one came in the door opposite carrying a big tub about half-full of hot water. In their great hurry they stumbled and the hot water was all over everything in the room except the baby.

W I T H a great deal of effort I found that this baby, about two years old, had been in the evening and had eaten about half of them before discovery. He was also cutting teeth which might have caused the trouble. Not being able to find any other cause, a pint or two of warm water containing a little baking soda was injected into the rectum. Soon the bowels commenced to get rid of the berries and the excitement was over.

T H E water that struck my foot was so hot that it was painful and I was glad it had been spilled on the floor and not on the baby. Convulsions are common and one, two, or three do no harm. It is just the outward manifestation of a more or less severe irritation of the nervous system. Some children are so constituted that any disturbance of the nerve centers will cause a spasm. Almost all the acute fevers will start with a convulsion. A fall on the head or back may cause the seizure. A fit of anger, or some irritating punishment may bring one on.

T H E first thing is to quiet yourself. Don't lose your own head and you will help to save the baby. Let him lie flat and don't try to rouse him. Put warm clothes wrung from mustard water on his stomach and immerse his feet in warm mustard water neither too hot nor too strong. Call the doctor and give him proper name and address. The convulsion will have passed when he arrives and he will be able to find and prescribe for the real cause.

Trailing Skirts

Women accustomed to the freedom of skirts in the days of thereabouts, find it something of a problem to acquire the graceful carriage necessary to the trailing skirts which were so important a detail of the Gay Nineties. Yet Paris seems determined to revive the elegance of that period, so the best we can do is to take ourselves in hand and determine to look like these perfect ladies of those days.

VACATION KIT SHOULD INCLUDE BEAUTY AIDS

By JACQUELINE HUNT

B E R E A D Y to walk in the leafy woods or canoe in the moonlight and find all the romance that late summer vacations bring. You can, if you know that your skin and hair and nails are radiant and sparkling. It's done with mirrors, yes and with the proper beauty aids tucked away in your vacation bag. Don't risk a peeling nose or straggly locks when you glimpse your reflection in some quiet pool—it's too disconcerting.

B egin right now to check over the things you will need to keep you looking your best en route and during the holiday without lugging along unnecessary clothes or cosmetics. This means a wise selection of undamnable beauty aids to meet any need that is likely to arise.

I f you are going on a camping trip or dude ranch where most of your time will be spent riding, hunting, fishing or hiking, only the articles for physical comfort are "essentials" while most of your beautifiers can be left at home. Remember to pack a good antiseptic to take the sting out of insect bites, a thick, healing ointment for minor injuries and sunburn and an oil to allow you to acquire a beautifully bronzed complexion without allowing your skin to become rough or chapped. You will also need a good hand lotion, a toothbrush and paste or powder, a good eye-wash, a bar of good hand soap and a lotion for tired burning feet.

I f you plan to drive away on your vacation and visit friends or stop at hotels on the way you will want to look your smartest when you arrive and during your stay in one place. Lay emphasis on the protective cosmetics to keep your skin lovely. An oily foundation cream and powder just a little darker than your skin will help you take on the sun and scenery without burning or injuring your skin in any way. You will find the new indelible cheek rouge that I have just discovered good for such a trip when your cheeks are exposed to wind, weather and perspiration.

T here will be evenings when you want to be frilly and fair and romantic so take along one or two glamorous costumes for just such occasions and you had better tuck a little pot of eye shadow and a devastating lipstick in one corner of your bag. A permanent mascara will also come in handy both for parties and swims.

O n the list of "musts" belongs a big jar of cleansing cream, a softening cream and a mild tonic or astringent for thorough cleansing and evening beauty routine. Don't forget the cleansing tissues. Take along a big box of them and use them to dry your skin after washing. To blend your make-up and remove the excess lipstick. You will win the lasting gratitude of your hostess if you do not smear her dainty guest towels with make-up. At least one warm cleansing towel followed by a washing with soap and water is essential every day, and you will find it to your advantage to give your skin an occasional cleansing when you stop for lunch or after any unusual exposure.

W hen applying the massage cream at night remember that when it is reinforced by a five-minute tapping treatment it will do twice as much good to sagging tissues and a depleted complexion. Use soap and water first but no cold water rinsing, since a warm skin responds quickly to contact with only cosmetics. Apply cold water in the morning.

MODES AND MANNERS

QUESTION: "Is it correct for women who meet in public to kiss? Or should they shake hands?"—Vivian D."

ANSWER: To be utterly correct, don't kiss in public. Any act which tends to make one conspicuous is deemed to be in poor taste. If very good friends meet unexpectedly and the impulse to kiss is spontaneous, they at least will be perfectly natural offense which even the etiquette book is powerless to condemn. However, don't make a habit of kissing women friends in public.

QUESTION: "Please tell me which form is correct for the professional calling card of a doctor: 'Dr. Samuel M. Blank,' or 'Samuel M. Blank, M.D.'?"—I. W.

ANSWER: Either form is correct.

Tasty Dishes for Today REAL DINNERS FOR A PICNIC

By JUDITH WILSON

I T'S good to bundle up the entire family and a picnic lunch once in a while and go on in the woods somewhere for a holiday. The men in your family will probably be up-in-arms at the suggestion but once you have gotten to your destination and brought out a luncheon basket or picnic kit, you will find that the grand meal their humor will improve by leaps and bounds.

Perhaps you will glance over the menus above and say that they are not real picnic menus, that they are just ordinary meals served out of doors and you will be right—partly. The first menu does seem like an everyday meal—but it is easier to prepare and serve than the usual sandwich-cookie type of lunch and it is far more appropriate for children than the usual cold foods or hot dogs broiled over the picnic fire.

Prepare Food in Advance

The main dish can be cooked at home the day before the picnic and then served in the dining room if it looks like rain. Or you can take all of your ingredients along and cook them in an iron kettle over the campfire while the rest of the family wanders about in the woods. Climbs trees or wades in the brook. It has a special zest, however, when you cook it over an open fire. In this case parboil your chicken the day before and remove the meat from the bones.

Chicken Stew

To make the savory chicken stew you will need the meat of a five pound chicken. Put three tablespoons of bacon fat or olive oil in your kettle and in it saute two sliced onions, and one chopped seeded green pepper. When tender add the contents of a medium sized can of tomatoes and three cloves of garlic finely chopped. Season to taste with salt, sugar, a pinch of powdered bay leaves and a bay leaf. Simmer together for half an hour then remove the bay leaf and add the contents of a small can of mushrooms and a small can of whole kernel corn or fresh corn cut from the cob. Next put in your pieces of chicken, add more seasoning if necessary and simmer for about ten minutes.

I f you prepare the chicken stew immediately before starting on the picnic, several layers of newspapers wrapped around the hot, covered kettle will keep the contents warm until you get to the picnic grounds. This really is unnecessary, however, since the stew reheats perfectly.

Hawaiian Cocktail

For the Hawaiian cocktail, cut honeydew melon, cantaloupe and fresh pineapple into small round balls or into small cubes. Pour over them a syrup made by boiling together three-fourths cup of sugar and one cup of water for five minutes. Pour this hot syrup over one-fourth cup chopped

New York—Women of all ages and size seem to have joined the white-collar class, and little wonder since the fashion is a fresh and flattering one.

In many cases, lingerie collars or the collar of the frock worn over the jacket introduces a pleasing distinction.

Long Gloves Return

Now about gloves. It is quite needless to say, without them. Fortunately, some of the gloves approved are very attractive and often very amusing in character. When long gloves first came out for evening wear, they were in the shape of a long, thin, fingerless glove, which they looked like a Parisienne for a couple of years, but this spring they seem to be definitely taking their place as a daytime fashion. Long gloves of these paradoxical character which show in times of depression, and in line with the voice of winter which has persisted even before the depression was spoken of in the past tense.

Felt Brings Felt

Advance hints from Paris indicate that French creators are looking with favor upon felt hats for fall. The new flannel felts which are edged in Paris descriptions, the patterned felts, and the "velvet" felts with rich, deep color suggestions which are in the style character to the mainline sports or town hat to accommodate casual costumes of the early fall.

The mannish in millinery is by no means finished. Since the advent of the fedora crown, Paris has developed this idea in many different ways. There has been no end of mannish blacks in Panama and other exotic straws, and the recent revival of interest in felt hats also reflects this influence strongly.

Home-Making By ALINE STERN

Fill cherries from which the stones have been removed with cream cheese and you have a dainty touch for a fruit salad. Use several for each serving.

Do you know how to blanch almonds? Pour boiling water over the nuts to loosen the skins. Drain, and remove skins with fingers. Chop or slice, whichever you prefer, while the nuts are still wet. If allowed to dry out, they grow brittle and break off irregularly. When cut, place in a sieve to drain. Use a shaker pan for this.

SLIPPER SATIN FOR FROCKS

The main body of this attractive fall frock has heavy slipper satin with a champps-like undersurface. The sleeves and bow are of a satin side. Black satin is used for the hat which has a facing of white.

Lame Duck Spaniards Hope for Chance... An Arab Peace-Maker

T H E R E are people walking the streets of Spain today who are long ago were under sentence of death. This situation has animated many Spaniards in the hope and even expectation that other amnesties by the present rulers will make their native soil safe for them.

One prominent Spaniard who is invariably called to mind when there is talk of amnesty is Jose Sanjurjo, onetime general and now not even a citizen. He is a prisoner in the Dueso penitentiary, in Santona, Province of Santander. Sanjurjo rose against the government in the August 10th monarchical rebellion last year and dominated Seville for one day, only to have to flee when those around him deserted. He was caught, tried and sentenced to death and the supreme penalty was commuted when Premier Manuel Azana intervened.

Those who desire to see Sanjurjo liberated are motivated by natural aspirations. They have before them the living example of Captain Salvador Sedes, condemned to death in March, 1931, for his participation in the Jaca uprising of the previous December. A telephone message from London by King Alfonso secured his pardon. Sent to prison in Morocco, Captain Sedes was freed by the amnesty which came with the proclamation of the Republic. He was received with triumph in Barcelona and elected to the Cortes Constituyentes.

When the Jaca rebellion occurred there were, of course, uprisings in a few other cities. In San Sebastian a group attacked the palace of the Civil Government. One of its leaders was Manuel Andres Casaus. He was tried at Seville and sentenced to death shortly before Spain became a Republic. Today he is Director of Public Safety of all Spain, after having been governor of two different provinces.

The last amnesty in Spain came with the proclamation of the Republic. The last one signed by King Alfonso was on February 6, 1930, the first anniversary of the death of his mother, Queen Maria Cristina. That date occurred a week after the downfall of the dictatorship of General Primo de Rivera, and the King seized that occasion to grant various pardons proposed during the dictatorship.

K I N G A B D U L A Z I Z I B N S A U D, the Wahabi ruler of Arabian lands is probably one of the mightiest and significant figures since the time of the Prophet Mohammed. His rise to fame, unsponsored by all but a handful of Nedi Arabs and one or two Englishmen, is a romance unparalleled in our time. If peace comes to the turbulent Arabian desert, he will be responsible.

Ibn Saud started his career in exile, and as they say on the Arabian coast, "he came from the desert, he came to the desert, he came to the desert." He was a young man when he came to the Arabian coast, and he was a young man when he came to the Arabian coast. He was a young man when he came to the Arabian coast, and he was a young man when he came to the Arabian coast.

Persuading the ruler of Kuwait to give him a few camels, some food and arms, Ibn Saud slipped out one day, accompanied by a few relatives and slaves, to cross the Eastern deserts. Success seemed impossible. The Saudi Family to which he belonged evoked no tender memories of loyalty. Most Bedouins were interested only in loot. He was advised to return to Kuwait. Instead, he crept to the outskirts of Riyadh and stealing over its crumbling walls with ten companions, gained entrance to the governor's house. The governor was elsewhere.

He looked the only occupants of the house, all of them women, into one room and awaited the governor's return. When the governor and his attendants appeared in the courtyard, Ibn Saud and his men killed them. The garrison at the fort surrendered quickly, not knowing Ibn Saud's strength, and once again a Saudi was proclaimed emir. From that day on his progress has been steady. He has conquered roving Arab bands and defeated rival kings of the desert. He rules with a rod of iron and his word is law. His justice is swift. If a man steals with his hand, let the offending member be cut off, says Ibn Saud.

WORKING WIVES GET NEW SLANT ON HUBBY'S JOB

By MARIAN MAY'S MARTIN

J U S T between ourselves, sisters, what does man get out of marriage? The average man that is? If the situation was reversed and if you were a man, earning perhaps a dollar a week, how much money to get along on comfortably would you undertake the entire responsibility of someone else, and in time a family beside? Or would you just grieve about and enjoy yourself as gay bachelors and even those not so gay invariably do?

W H A T E V E R a man gains by marriage, he does lose his freedom and he does usually take over the task of supporting his family, which even in times of times is a serious undertaking.

W E W O M E N are inclined to take too much for granted, and to accept the sacrifices our husbands make as only our due, which is of course all wrong. But wives used to be supported by their husbands, and were not supposed to work," you exclaim. Stop and think a bit, they did work, these wives of the pre-war-earning-women. It's only someone who is entirely ignorant of housekeeping and the rearing of children who regards it as a sort of indoor sport. Wives did work, housework, and with the encouragement or incentive of a pay envelope. They did their share and of the work women were supposed to do, and which now the vacuum and the washing machine or the laundry and all the improved household appliances do.

W H A T then, is the wife going to contribute to the upkeep of the family? Caring for the children is her job, if we suppose there are no children?

M E N do not need to marry for feminine companionship and more cheerful society than their wives offer contribute, by the way. What is it then that impels a man to marry, to compel him to marry, seriously haven't you ever wondered?

W I T H women it is of course quite different. It's easy enough to understand their anxiety to get themselves married, although it is sometimes hard to figure out why they were short-sighted enough to think that marriage is irresponsible men, as they so often do, is going to benefit them.

I T IS a mistake to assume that men and women marry only because they are in love. Women marry for support, and because they want a home and children, marriage is the only practical way of obtaining it. Or is it considered anything but canny of them to get themselves married as quickly, and as well as possible. Even marrying money is encouraged and approved, although we are just going through the rather difficult process of justifying men following the same sage course. Fortune hunters are still frowned upon in public although many fond parents instill it into their sons, as well as their daughters, that it is just as easy to love a rich as a poor person, and a dead end easier to stay in love with them.

S C O R N of money was a characteristic of the melodramatic '90s when haughty heroines went about exclaiming, "take away your gold, for gold can never buy me love." But now, when money is so scarce, and when men are never richer when won for virtue's sake, and lefty sentiments of this generation, admit that gold is important, whether we happen to be on or off the gold standard.

M O N E Y is a lubricant and does grease the machinery of life. We women have been forced into a position of wage earner, thanks to the depression, and thanks to used wisely. It has been good for us, although we very much question whether it has been good for the men who have had to suffer the humiliation of being supported by their wives. No matter how willing a man may be to lie down on the job and let his wife work to support him, he has got to grow a pretty thick skin.

W O M E N being women are going to make him pay for the privilege of being supported. Nobody envies a man who is financially dependent on a woman, even a very rich one. The level of society makes very little difference. Women just don't take kindly to supporting husbands, which brings us right back to where we started, would women, if conditions were reversed, give up as much as men for marriage? "I think we can all make a good guess at the answer."

butt of a revolver. He said he hit her several times and then threw her backwards into the bathtub. She did not move and he saw that she was dead.

"He ransacked the house for money and food and obtained a small amount of the former. He messed the place up with blood," he said, and finally cleaned his revolver and left."

Begley said the negro cried all the time he was making the confession.

"Why do you tell me this?" he said he asked him.

Had to Tell Story
"I gotta tell somebody," the negro is said to have replied. Begley asserted he endeavored to have the negro prove his story by showing some jewelry taken from the Lamson home but the negro said he took only money.

After sitting by the railroad track and sobbing for nearly an hour, the negro left, Begley said, and started walking toward Redwood City. A week ago he said he talked to him again and asked him how he felt about it now.

"How does any man feel with something like that on his mind?" the negro is reported to have replied. He then continued on his way to the Dumbarton cutoff.

Negro Described
He is described as about 26 years old, wearing a black hat, blue shirt, dilapidated shoes and corduroy pants. He was about six feet tall, weighed 180 pounds and walked with a slouch.

Authorities are inclined to take the flagman's story seriously. Begley said that he had not told the story before, fearing ridicule.

Japanese Naval Maneuvers Draw to Close With Terrific Battle

TOKIO, Aug. 17 (Thursday) Aug. 17—Japan's war maneuvers, involving the greatest display of naval strength exhibited in the Far East, approached a climax today as "attacking" and "defending" fleets converged on a spot off the Bonin Islands for what was expected to be the deciding "battle" of the games.

The main island and the city of Tokyo have already experienced warlike events, when "enemy" bombing planes dived overhead the city's lights were extinguished, defending planes were sent up to combat the raiders, and batteries of anti-aircraft guns went into action.

Repeat Air Raids
Japan was safely defended from the air raids, and now the scene of the "war" has moved to sea, with an "enemy" fleet, representing that of the United States, approaching the Bonin Islands 630 miles south of here, and the Japanese defense forces moving to meet it.

Emperor Hirohito, who by divine right rules 125,000,000 Japanese and is the official protector of 20,000,000 inhabitants of Manchuria, was en route to the naval war zone to take personal command of the maneuvers.

100 Battleships
More than 100 fighting vessels, divided into two fleets, were to participate in the battle. Japanese defense forces were moving out of various naval bases and steaming at full speed for the Bonin Islands, in the path of the "enemy's" approach.

When contact is made, the emperor will send his modern warships into action to test their efficiency in repelling an imaginary foe.

When the extensive sham battle is concluded, the entire fleet will assemble in the water south of here and prepare for the grand naval review to be held off Tokushima August 25.

Parade For Emperor
The ships will be arranged in line formation some three miles outside the Yokohama harbor. The emperor, in the imperial flagship, will pass through the lanes while the guns of this after ship take up the imperial salute.

Grand naval reviews, ending the war maneuvers which are held only once every three years, are among the most spectacular sights to be seen in Japan, and are carried out with the precision and impressive effect for which Japanese fighting forces are noted.

After reviewing the fleet, the emperor will advance his criticism of the maneuvers, and the squadrons will return to their respective bases August 31.

Foreign newspaper men were not permitted to view the maneuver this year, but were invited to watch the final review.

gram will function so far as Richmond is concerned.

Committee Named
The local committee will be known as the President's Emergency Re-employment Campaign Committee, and the leaders selected at the meeting were:

Chairman, John A. Miller, Lieutenant General, Mrs. Tsar Calfee.

Publicity Chairman, Fred S. Newson.

Chairman speakers' Bureau, James N. Long.

Chairman educational committee, Guy E. Miles.

Colonel, to lead group of majors in organization of divisions throughout the city: Gifford T. Douglas.

Miller, taking the chair at the conclusion of the organization meeting, received nomination and election of a group to make up an advisory board, including James A. McVittie, Viola Cox, Mayor Walter Johnston, Henry Creeger, C. E. Finney, T. Emmet Ward and W. P. Drumme. This board will number 15 or more persons and will be completed by Miller's appointments.

Embraces Whole City
P. M. Sanford president of the Chamber of Commerce, who called the meeting, presided at the luncheon and announced that the new committee was to be city-wide in scope, embracing representatives of all organizations and groups in Richmond.

"This is not much different from the war days," he said. "Many of us took part in the Liberty Loan drives and other campaigns connected with winning that great conflict."

"This also is a war—a war against depression. We were 100 per cent and often more than that in our war efforts here in Richmond, and we must make as good a record in this great peace-time campaign to win prosperity."

"This is a time for work, not mere flag-waving, and results are only gotten through organization. All must put their shoulders to the wheel if we are to win. We are in receipt of the plans for organization as sent out from Washington and I feel certain we in Richmond will not only adopt the plan but will see that it is vigorously and efficiently executed."

"This is the time for action is we are to make the showing of real sympathy with what our President is seeking to accomplish."

Willing To Work

Miller, in accepting the responsibility for leadership of the campaign, said he would dedicate himself wholeheartedly to the task and carry it to a successful conclusion with the aid of the other members of his committee and the public at large.

The city will be organized into special divisions, which will make a complete canvass, carrying the message of NRA to every person in Richmond.

Speakers will be heard in short talks by members of the speakers' bureau and a variety of activities will be carried on to insure the fullest support of the reconstruction plans laid down by the President.

Lettuce Field Strike Failure

SALINAS, Aug. 16.—UP—Attempts to spread a strike to 1700 lettuce workers appeared to have failed today when all field managers reported picking was going on as usual.

Seven hundred Filipinos walked out yesterday, and expected to have 1000 others follow them. New workers were hired to replace the strikers, and the remaining pickers stayed on the job.

SAN JOSE, Aug. 16.—UP—From 500 to 1000 pear pickers, on strike in Santa Clara county orchards, peacefully continued their demands today for higher wages and shorter working days.

Picketing was conducted quietly and no trouble was reported.

Few recruits were added to the original ranks of strikers, and orchard owners reported new pickers were added to replace those who walked out.
